

چکیده انگلیسی مقالات

Worshiping Monotheism in Sahifa Sajjadiyya

Amineh Delniyad

(Graduated student and researcher of Peyrovane Hazrate Zahra (AS) Seminary)

Abstract

The infallible Imams' prayers especially the prayers of Imam Sajjad (AS) have a close relationship with monotheism from a theoretical and practical point of view. These prayers teach monotheism and its stages and different types, and the prayers, themselves, are the manifestation of the purest theoretical and practical monotheism. This paper intends to study the appearance and presence of monotheism and its extent in the prayers of Imam Sajjad (AS). Therefore, after explaining the main role of monotheism in Islam and its importance, the true monotheism has been explained, by citing some words of prayers, it has been clarified that the ladder of theoretical monotheism is an emersion of practical monotheism. This book, known among the last pundits as Psalms of the holy Mohammad's household, includes Islamic teachings of monotheism, prophethood, and ..., beside it's at the highest level of supplication to God Almighty.

Keywords: worshiping monotheism, monotheism in prayer, request, hymn, Sahifa Sajjadiyya

Rage and Anger in Sahifa Sajjadiyya

Sayyidah Athar Sajedi Niya
(Graduated student of the 3th level of Khorasan Seminary)

Abstract

Rage can destroy many of friendship and kinship's fundamentals and ruin societies and also form enmities and seditions. Meanwhile, suppression of rage is a way to get closer to God and conquer people's hearts. Therefore, Imam Zainul Abideen (AS), in the prayer of Makarem Al-Akhlag, asks God to restrain and control his anger and rage. This paper after presenting the concept of anger, examines the matter of rage in the hadiths and Sahifa Sajjadiyya. By studying the different articles and based on Sahifa Sajjadiyya teachings the necessity of reason and has been clarified and the roots of rage and its cures have been presented .

Keywords: rage, anger, rage suppression, Sahifa Sajjadiyya

The Principles of Crime Prevention in Sahifa Sajjadiyya

Ali Salehi

(Student of the 4th level of Khorasan Seminary, PhD student, Razavi University of Islamic Sciences)

Abstract

The matter of crime and its avoidance in society has always been one of the most important concerns of humanity in the field of social issues. Although this subject has been discussed a lot from legal and jurisprudential point of view, but with an approach on bases of religious teachings, including the teachings of Sahifa Sajjadiyya, it has received less attention from scholars .

In this paper, based on Sahifa Sajjadiyya as the moral education and training source in the Islamic world and in accordance to the holy Qur'an, related hadiths, and other linked works, a survey around the subject of crime prevention has been done .

This article, based on the book of Sahifa Sajjadiyya, tries to examine the principles that govern the matter of crime prevention which include: Islamic laws practicing, human dignity, enjoining good and forbidding wrong, social security, justice, and welfare, meritocracy, synergistic participation and decisiveness.

Keywords: Sahifa Sajjadiyya, prayer, prevention, crime, principles

The Manifestation of Thankfulness in the 15th Prayer of Sahifa Sajjadiyya

Zeynab Sadiq Panahi

(Graduated student of the 2nd level of Bushehr Seminary)

Abstract

The 15th prayer of Sahifa Sajjadiyya, by aiming the thankfulness during illness, is among the teachings which could be so effective in the Islamic lifestyle of today's people. In this study, to discover and use the hidden angles of Imam Sajjad's words (AS), by the library study method, each passage has been analyzed and examined separately to introduce illness as a source of goodness in human life. Furthermore the Imam's prospect about sickness, health and one's reactions in these conditions has been discussed. Therefore it could be understood that throughout Imam's prayer, with a special and excellent world view, illness has been considered as a step to gain contentment level which leads one to repentance and results in shedding of sins and purification and how the illness gets a person closer to God.

Keywords: illness, prayer, health, thankfulness, Sahifa Sajjadiyya

The Real Peacefulness in the Light of Imam Sajjad's (AS) Teachings

Mahdiyeh Sabet

(Graduated student of the 3th level of Khorasan Seminary)

Abstract

One of the most important and essential characteristic of religions and leadership claimants is to bring people and society to contentment. The holy Quran as the manifest of Islam has clarified the general characteristics of a desirable life. These factors have been discussed in details within the Imams (AS) hadiths in which by practicing them the individual and social peacefulness will be gained. The intension of this study, with the title of the real peacefulness in the light of Imam Sajjad's (AS) teachings, is to extract and study some of these factors in accordance with the words of Imam Sajjad (AS) and Sahifa Sajjadiyya which must be considered as an inestimable, pure, and comprehensive Islamic culture source. In this paper, which has been compiled by library study method, beside expressing the concept of real peacefulness, some signs of spiritual peace and a brief description around the differences between real and wrong peacefulness have been discussed. According to the results, the most important factors of inner peace from the perspective of Sahifa Sajjadiyya are: trust in God, patience, thankfulness, faith, and seeking refuge in God.

Keywords: Imam Sajjad (AS), Sahifa Sajjadiyya, prayer, spirituality, peacefulness

The Manners of Prayer from the Perspective of Sahifa Sajjadiyya

Safiyeh Vatani

(Graduated student of the 3th level of Khorasan Seminary)

Abstract

The prayers of Imam Sajjad (AS) in Sahifa Sajjadiyya are full of noble and gratifying themes. These prayers are a sign of affluent sense, noble spirit, superiority of personality and familiarity with hardship. With a little deep thinking and contemplation, the reader of these prayers feels a spiritual and immaterial pleasure, which is not equal to any material pleasure, and he finds this book as a book of knowledge. Although there are many studies around Sahifa Sajjadiyya, the manners of prayer (based on Imam Sajjad's (AS) prayers) has been less surveyed. This article has been compiled with a library study method and by using scientific sources. In this paper, firstly, the literal meaning of prayer and its meaning in the Sahifa Sajjadiyya have been discussed, then the elements and conditions of prayer which include: pure worship, belief in divine power, attention to God's nearness, sincerity, true request, and the manner of prayer have been studied. Finally, the issue of prayer in accordance to Sahifa Sajjadiyya has been studied.

Keywords: Imam Sajjad (AS), Sahifa Sajjadiyya, prayer, praise, pure worship, God's closeness

چکیده انگلیسی مقالات

